

The Antarctic Time Zone

A MNPG Postulate

A redefining of the idea of the "timezone" towards a fairer approach, in which areas of the world that have a declination of competitiveness because of their own timezone, could be allotted a better slice of the pie. The current mode of delivery would be changed from latitudinal to longitudinal, and the space within those zones would also be adjusted to create a harmonisation of opportunity.